How To Gain Flesh

Persons have been known to gain a pound a day by taking an ounce of Scott's Emulsion. It is strange, but it often happens.

Somehow the ounce produces the pound; it seems to start the digestive machinery going properly, so that the patient is able to digest and absorb his ordinary food which he could not do before, and that is the way the gain is made.

A certain amount of flesh is necessary for health; if you have not got it you can get it by taking Home Circle Column.

A Column Dedicated To Tired Mothers as They Join The Home Circle.

One reason why so many girls and boys, men and women, too, are uninteresting is because they try so hard to be like somebody else rather than be content to remain himself or herself in life. In nature you don't see an oak posing as a yellow leg, or a horse as a cow, or a lily as a rose, or a lilac as a peony, or a dog as a cat. Be natural and you'll be all right. Many a girl without the slightest talent for music is running a piano who should be making bonnets or bread; and many a boy is studying for a learned profession whose proper sphere is the machine shop or the mill; many a man is splitting up the churches who ought to be doing good service in some institution of learning, teaching or working on a farm, and many a woman is trying in vain to be a leader of society when she should be a model housewife in her own home.

QUEER THINGS.

The man who talks of "supporting" a wife when she works fourteen hours a day, including Sunday.

The man who thinks his wife exists for the comfort and convenience of his mother and sisters.

The man who provides himself with a family and trusts providence to provide for the family with a home and something to eat.

The man who thinks that nobody but an angel is good enough to be his.

The man who can't remember his wife's birthday.

The man who thinks the woman is "fixed for the season" if she has a new gown.

The man who thinks a woman ought to give up $1,000 salary and work in his kitchen for her board and a few clothes and be glad of the chance.

The man who labors under the delusion that his wife's money belongs to him.

The man who always leaves his wife at home when he takes his summer vacation.

The man who doesn't know what on earth a woman wants with money when she has a bill at the store.

The man who thinks a sick wife would feel better if she would "just get up and stir around."

THE GIRL ON THE FARM.

The farmer's girl does not generally realize the advantages she has for self-improvement, over the other positions of life. The free-society girl or those situated in idleness and independence of farm life afford opportunities for study which, if rightly employed, would develop our farmers' girls into the professional women workers of our times. How is it, girls, and especially you girls on the farm, that we hear so often of the "self-made man" (and most of our great men are of that class), and so little of self-made woman? Our farmer boys become great lawyers and statesmen, etc., have you not the same opportunities as they? The girl who has been raised on the farm and has aspirations to any of the professions, generally conceives the idea that she must get away from the farm to do her studying at the very first jump. Do not be too hasty in leaving the farm, where you can keep such perfect health, which is the great requisite to a brilliant mind. And, first of all, before you aspire to any professional work, learn your duties as a housekeeper. Household work will not interfere with study. You require exercise and there is none better than keeping a farm house. And if you do not wish to take up any kind of profession, study will not harm you; make the most of the talents nature has given you, and when the happy fellow is met your happiness will be of the kind that you will not regret the time you considered wasted. Do not be too hasty in running your neck into the matrimonial noose. If you from choice should remain single (do not fear that, you will have to from necessity). You will find plenty of work to do, plenty of burdens to lighten, and plenty of loveable ones upon whom to lavish the wealth of charitable affections. Be assured that true happiness is not found in living for one's self alone. Do your best, make the most of the material at hand, and at the close of life's journey you will enjoy that peace, the knowledge of a well spent life alone can give.

Perhaps it is true, there never was a garment too fine for a man or a maid; there never was a chair too good for a cobbler or a cooper or a king to sit in; never a house too fine to shelter the human head. But often times do we value all these things far more than they are worth and sometimes mortgage a house for the malice we bring into it? Had we better not forego the pleasure of all these than consume ourselves before we get a place we can call home, and take so much pains with the outside that the inside is as empty as a hollow nut. Beauty is a great thing, but beauty of garments and house and furniture are tawdry ornaments compared with domestic love. All the elegance in the world will not make a home, and a spoonful of love exceeds whole shiploads of furniture and all the gorgeousness the world can gather.

Now we want to say something to husbands. These dear, aggravating, indispensable creatures, that there is hardly any living with or without. If your wife or daughter has been bending over the hot stove, and a sewing machine all day, she needs to ride out in a vehicle or horseback. Don't think we are a fit subject for a lunatic asylum if we tell you to stop a horse out of "the trap" and take her, or let her go by herself if she is not afraid. There is no more sense in temperate work than intertemperate rest. You may have to stop longer than an hour to go for a doctor, and work longer to pay the bill. You will be sorry some day when those tired hands hold white flowers under a pall that you did not look more after her health and comfort. If she thinks it is too much trouble, use your God-given prerogative and make her. You will find that it is the cheapest way to keep a cook that will not die on your hands right in the busiest time of the year. And for good luck's sake don't get up on Sunday morning and walk around over the crop while she gets the house in order and then come in and change your clothing all over the house and leave your muddy shoes and soiled linen scattered around all over the house and then go out on the porch and read politics and then refuse to carry her to church. If you do, don't blame anybody but yourself if you have the "crossed wife in the world."

CHICKENS

Get Drunk On Wine.

Woman Pours Sour Blackberry Wine in Trough and Brood Enjoys A Jag.

The home of Mrs. S. A. Thompson, four miles from Louisville on the Preston-street road, took on the appearance of a trained animal show Sunday afternoon when more than 100 buff rock chickens, drunk on sour blackberry wine, strutted and fought and finally went down for the count to sleep off the effects of the jag. It was necessary for Mr. and Mrs. Thompson and their servants to carry all the chickens into the hen house last night. All of them had entirely recovered this morning with the exception of one old hen, who so far forgot her motherly duties as to get coused, leaving her brood of 13 chicks to the mercy of the rats, cats and dogs.

Shortly after noon, Mrs. Thompson went to the cellar to get some wine and discovered that a large quantity of blackberry had soured. She carried it upstairs and to the chicken yard. Never dreaming of the possible effect on the chickens, she poured the wine into the trough.

A big buff rooster strutted up to the trough and taking a sip sent out the call that brought the en-

The brood hurrying to the feast. It was the old story. One drink was so good they took just one more. After that they didn't care whether they ever stopped and indeed they did not until the trough was drained.

Then the fun began. Mothers fought with sons and daughters. Hens, cackled and roosters crowed while the battle was on. The big rooster—the one which had started the trouble—pranced up and down on his unsteady legs until the wine got the best of him and with a farewell crow stumbled over on his side.

Mrs. Thompson hearing the racket, went to the door. The chickens were wobbling about in their drunken frenzy and here and there they could be seen lying on their backs apparently dead. Mrs. Thompson summoned her husband. By the time he reached the hen yard the majority were down and out. He questioned Mrs. Thompson and quieted her fears, for her chicks by informing her that the charge would be just a plain drunk—nothing more.

Mr. Thompson supposed the chickens would recover by night, but they did not, and nearly every one had to be carried into the house. The younger element—those that could not get into the trough—could not understand the strange conditions of the belligerent attitude of their mothers and fathers, caused them to seek shelter under the coops.

World Brand Silverware

Is Positively the Best on the Market

It comes to us direct from the manufacturers, thus saving the liberal profit allowed to jobbers by other makers. This line includes

Knives, Forks & Spoons

They are guaranteed to contain 50 per cent more silver than the Rogers' ware at the same price. This is possible because the purchaser does not pay a jobber's profit.

There are very few homes that are too poor to afford a set of this tableware for use "when company comes" and every man owes it to his wife to provide it. There is nothing that will bring the same amount of satisfaction for the money. Once in a life time is all you have to buy World Brand Ware.
